

ABSTRACT

A top for use on an All-Terrain-Vehicle (ATV) includes a plurality of flexible sections that are supported by support rods located in tubes in the sections. Some of the sections include transparent windows, and one of the sections has a manually operated windshield wiper thereon. Straps are used to releasably mount the top on an ATV. Joint elements are also included so a support rod from one flexible section can be releasably attached to a support rod in another flexible section. Closure elements, such as zippers, are used to releasably attach several of the flexible sections together.